My life-long passion with nature has taken me down many creative paths. The moment I picked up a camera and looked through the lens, I found the medium that I was able to share my vision of beauty with others. I love walking through my gardens with my camera in my hand and finding my dog sniffing a flower or traveling to a faraway destination. I am always intrigued and inspired by nature. It challenges me to capture the beauty and diversity in that moment in time.
